

Australian Unity Video Transcript

VIDEO NDIS Client Cassandra

I don't know how I can cope without my dad, but eventually I'm going to have to because we're not getting any younger.

Ever since Cassie was young, she's really developed and grown and her commitment to achieving is second to none.

I used to compete in swimming. I've got Australian records.

Now with the NDIS, she's taking control and sort of booking her own holidays and taking control of her life.

I love to do shopping, the movies and horse riding.

To be able to have input and start to take control, um, of where we're going, not only for Cassie, but for the family as well, meant that we we're able to plan a lot better.

Her name is Tegan. We have fun together. She makes me smile and laugh.

They've always provided great service for Cassie. They've always been there.

They've just been great help all the way through.

Not many people have heard of the sport I'm doing now. It's Boccia. My dream is to eventually get into the Paralympics. The future absolutely feels better