VIDEO NDIS Client Dean

When I heard of the NDIS and like the plans that they had, my goal actually seemed like something I might be able to achieve. If you told me like even when I was trying to get into uni that I would be in the course that I wanted to be in and doing this, it's....ah.....it's insane.

I had those times where I thought oh no, oh no, I might not be able to do this. My sister has always said to me don't settle for what other people think that you can do, but set your own goals and then become their boss.

I felt happy because I like the way they structure things. You're the one who is in charge and I felt they really accommodated my mindset, so you tell us what to do, and we'll try our best to accommodate you type thing. I feel like it's much easier to achieve my goals and that's strange to me because I've never felt that kind of control over my future before.

Wow!
